Cost-effective security leadership and support

Are you moving as fast and decisively as your adversaries?

If you are only striving for compliance, the answer is “NO”, as it’s difficult to successfully implement and maintain hundreds of controls. However, with effective executive support and a security program that engages all responsible parties, you CAN rapidly implement those controls that will do the most to protect your information assets. Experienced support makes the difference, and MyDataOnly staff include former CISOs with an average of 20 years of information security experience.
